A Massive Famille Rose Charger by Samson, Edmé et Cie.

A Massive Samson Famille Rose Charger, brightly enameled to the interior with a medallion enclosing three figures standing in a peony filled fenced garden with a pair of phoenix in flight overhead, encircled in the well by four cusped medallions enclosing antiques reserved on a pink trellis ground, the broad flaring rim with four large floral sprays of peony, lotus and prunus, the exterior with four simple iron red floral sprays.

Artist description:

The French porcelain manufactory of Samson et Cie. was established by Edmé Samson (1810 - 1891) at 7, rue Vendôme (later rue Béranger) in Paris.

The firm specialised in re-creating important and rare porcelain from museums and private collections. In 1864, the factory was moved to Montreuil by Samson's son, Emile Samson (1837-1913).
